

Vaccination Policy and Information

The law in Sweden states that vaccinations are first and foremost voluntary.

Futuraskolan AB, and our school, Futuraskolan International School of Stockholm works with our school's health care facility: Sollentunahälsan.

Sollentunahälsan follows the guidelines from the Swedish Public Health Agency through the Infection Protection Act. The Act states: all children in Sweden should be offered the Swedish vaccination program. Sweden has been following the European vaccination program since 2002.

The families and students who move to Sweden and are considered for enrollment into our school are asked to provide medical and health documentation, which includes vaccination records.

If there is no vaccination documentation provided, our school informs Sollentunahälsan to contact the potential families of students to provide information about the Swedish vaccination program and encourage them to participate.

If the guardian accepts the vaccination program they are referred to BVC (barnvårdscentralen) by Sollentunahälsan. Sollentunahälsan thereafter follows up with the guardian and notifies the school.

If the guardian declines the offered Swedish vaccination program, documentation is placed into the student's journal by Sollentunahälsan and the school nurse.

The guardians will be informed about the risks that can arise if they refuse a vaccine, especially MMR, Measles, Mumps, and Rubella.
